

Healing, Transformation and Nonviolence: Peacemaking in the Holy Land

Workshop: Tuesday 5 September 1:30-5pm

Temple Sinai, 147 Ghuznee Street

Tickets essential, available at: <http://bit.ly/sami-tix>

Leadership has many dimensions. Through vision, inspiration, strategy and determination, leaders move others toward outcomes. Constrained by our past experiences, our solutions are usually new iterations of what hasn't worked in the past. Nonlinear leadership is a personal transformation process that enables leaders to understand how powerfully the past influences our decisions in the present, for the future. With this awareness, individually and collectively, leaders become able to facilitate a process in which they build a vision of the future that honours, respects and learns from the past, while, at the same time, remaining free from its limitations.

Public Lecture: Tuesday 5 September 7pm

Salvation Army Citadel, 92 Vivian St

Entry by Koha

Sami Awad brings an important voice to the table in the discussion about peace in the middle east – the voice of nonviolence. Calling for a paradigm shift in peace and justice, Sami, who established Holy Land Trust with Palestinian and Israeli peace activists, explains how his organisation tries to help people to look into the past with a different lens to create a better future.

Come learn about Sami's approach to overcoming fear and violence to achieve lasting healing and peace in the middle east.

For more information, contact:

Dave Moskovitz, dave@abrahamic.nz, 027 220 2202